What makes us healthy?

Healthier communities result when decision makers and policy makers consider health in their decision making. This approach is called Health in All Policies (HiAP).

HiAP uses different tools depending on the size, scope, and stage of the decision-making process.

Decision makers can use a Health Lens Analysis Tool for a simple analysis of all policies.

Decision makers can use a Health Impact Assessment (HIA) for a deeper, more complex analysis of a specific policy.

Your jurisdiction or organization can do this too!

Contact the health department at healthequity@tpchd.org for support implementing a Health in All Policies approach.